ASHFORD, UK, April 16, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- With over 14 categories of Hamilton switches and sockets, Electrical Counter has become the UK's number one online store for this range steel, brass and well finished switches and sockets

With over 14 categories of Hamilton switches and sockets, Electrical Counter has become the UK's number one online store for this range steel, brass and well finished switches and sockets. Hamilton is a British manufacturer of quality and bespoke electrical brass, nickel and chrome plug sockets, switches and other audio and lighting control systems.

Available now online at the Electrical Counter is three ranges of Hamilton light switches and plug sockets to suit various homes and styles. Available are designs and features for periodic homes and more contemporary, modern styles, too

The first of the range is the Woods Collection from Hamilton. A fairly standard range consisting of two beautiful edge finishes including chamfered and ovolo. The chamfered design is a classic pattern that employs four separate finishes which include antique mahogany and dark oak, for the more traditional property, and light oak and medium oak, which is far more versatile. The ovolo finish employs the same four sub-finishes, but comes across as a far more traditional and wooden look that chamfered.

The next range from Hamilton is the super Hartland CFX colours range of switches and sockets. Each product is a stylish extra thin plastic plate with concealed fixing accessories. Available are three colours in this range, including a real bright white with various coloured inserts. A jet black choice is also available, which like the bright white colour range, has a primary colour with a various coloured inserts propelling the design. The final product range from the CFX colours is the Pillar Box Red range. A delightful section of switches and sockets in a strong red blood configuration.

Last of the ranges from Hamilton via the Electrical counter is the Hartland range which involves classic chrome plug sockets and brass switches. Available are eight excellent ranges of switches and sockets which include dimmer switches, dolly switches, media chrome plug sockets, TV and SAT inputs, grid plates and various other switches and sockets for a wide range of uses and applications. The eight ranges of finishes are as follows: for more traditional homes, polished brass, satin brass, black nickel and antique brass. For your more modern fit, finishes include bright chrome, bright stainless steel, pearl oyster and satin chrome.

Customers can find a wide range of switches and sockets, not only from Hamilton, but from other exciting and top brand. Available online is the best selling nexus range of plug sockets, too. A high-quality range of switches and sockets for customers to choose from online today.
