

ISO Group Completes AS9120A Certification

ISO Group, Inc. announces completion of AS9120A certification process.

PALM BAY, FL, USA, April 24, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- ISO Group, Inc. is pleased to announce that they have completed the AS9120A certification process. They received their AS9120A certificate on February 20, 2014.

The AS9120 standard has ISO 9000 Quality Management System requirements as a foundation. AS9120 then adds over 100 additional requirements that are specific to supply chain management in the Aerospace and Defense industries. Many Aerospace and Defense prime contractors require AS9120 certification of their supply chain partners.

President and CEO, Kevin Lowdermilk stated, "Like ISO Group, the AS9120 standard puts a strong emphasis on robust business processes and continuous improvement. Our commitment to the AS9120A standard ensures to our customer base that we are focused on these principles for the long term."

ISO Group is a Defense and Aerospace sustainment partner. We leverage proprietary technology to provide spare parts and engineering solutions to maintain and extend the life cycle of military platforms.

ISO Group assists governments, militaries and prime contractors in over 80 countries with their immediate, long-term and project based spare parts requirements.
