

Demolish And Build In Perth With Summit New Homes And Get A New Home On Your Existing Lot

Summit New Homes offers demolish and build services on existing home lots. Visit their display homes in Perth for design ideas.

PERTH, WA, AUSTRALIA, May 31, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- PERTH, AUSTRALIA -- Summit New Homes is a new home builder that caters to a range of home buyers. While most buyers think builders only build on open land, Summit New Homes demolish and build services means existing homeowners can stay in their current location and still get a new home.

"Families outgrow their homes, but by the time that day arrives, they've come to love their location and don't want to move. Our demolish and build service means owners can stay in their same location and get a new home too. It's the best of both worlds," said Sandra Muller of Summit New Homes (www.summitnewhomes.com.au).

Deciding to demolish and build in Perth is an option that is gaining popularity as land prices rise, especially near city centres. It has proven popular with families that have outgrown their current home space as well as older couples who want to build a home that is suitable for their retirement years.

"The one thing all of our demolish and build customers have in common is a desire to stay in their same location. Other than that, they are as different from one another as the home designs themselves, proving that demolish and build is a popular choice for almost any homeowner," said Muller.

Summit New Homes offers a variety of home sizes, styles and designs to choose from under the demolish and build service, ensuring the right fit for the lot and the homeowners themselves. The company handles all aspects of the demolition and construction from securing council approvals to site management. Homeowners simply need to choose a home design and pack up their old home.

The builder offers a variety of one- and two-storey home designs that fit blocks from 12m to 21m in width. Their display homes in Perth showcase Summit's capabilities and design innovations with features like spacious master suites, open living floor plans and seamless indoor/outdoor living.

"The biggest reason people change homes is because the home no longer meets their needs. Either it's too small or outdated or doesn't fit the family's lifestyle. Few people think about building where they are but it can be cost-effective because they already own the land. All they have to pay for is the structure to be built on it. At Summit we like to say our demolish and build option allows homeowners to change their home, but not their address," said Muller.
