Costa Rica-based adventure travel company shares tips and facts on how parents and kids can reconnect on vacation.

TURRIALBA, COSTA RICA, July 21, 2014 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Family vacations are a time for fun, excitement and relaxation. Costa Rica Rios has released a creative infographic called "Ready for a Family Vacation!" The piece features some fun facts and statistics about planning and taking a family trip.

The adventure travel company, which is based in Turrialba, arranges vacations in Costa Rica for families, groups and couples throughout the world, including many from the U.S. and Canada. It's owned and operated by Fraser and Jane Tyrrell, who work directly with their clients to plan out activities of interest for everyone involved in the trip.

"When people come to visit Costa Rica on vacation, we usually notice a sharp contrast in how much more relaxed they are when they leave compared to when they arrive," said Jane Tyrrell of Costa Rica Rios. "We wanted to put together a creative infographic that captures how family vacations are a really special time for parents and kids to relax and reconnect."

Families who experience adventure travel together participate in a range of activities, from guided tours of the rainforest to horseback riding or surfing lessons. The Tyrrells recommend that parents let their kids help plan the family vacation. As mentioned in the infographic, they'll look forward to the vacation even more.
