

IT Governance launches new corporate blog and gives away a prize to one lucky subscriber

IT Governance, the global provider of books, training and consultancy for cyber security and IT governance has launched a new international blog.

ELY, CAMBRIDGESHIRE, UK, July 29, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- IT Governance, the global provider of books, tools, training and consultancy for cyber security and IT governance, risk management and compliance (IT GRC), has launched a new international blog.

www.itgovernance.co.uk/blog has a fresh new look and a new responsive design that enables readers to access all the latest news, discussion and comment from the world of cyber security and IT GRC on any device, wherever they are.

Some of the exciting new sections on the IT Governance blog include 'Technical Experts' – where subject matter experts provide insights into the likes of the PCI DSS, cyber security, ISO27001, business continuity and ITSM – and 'Book Reviews' – a section that hosts interviews with leading authors in the IT industry.

Some of the most viewed blog posts in July on the newly launched IT Governance blog include:

- eBay has suffered a security breach for the second time this year
- Four reasons why your organisation needs Cyber Essentials
- Are you an e-commerce merchant that doesn't store any cardholder data? You may need a penetration test.

To celebrate the launch of its new blog, IT Governance is offering one lucky individual the chance to win a free IT Governance training course of their choice.

All they need to do is subscribe to the blog before 24 August 2014 here:
