BOISE, IDAHO, USA, August 4, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- IT Governance, the global provider of IT governance, risk management and compliance (IT GRC) products and services, has launched a new blog commenting on IT GRC issues specific to US organizations: www.itgovernanceusa.com/blog.

The blog will focus in particular on legislation like the Federal Information Security Management Act (FISMA) and the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA). Cyber threat has been noted by President Obama as 'one of the most serious economic and national cyber security challenges we face as a nation'. Organizations need to ensure that they have the structure and frameworks in place to handle their confidential data securely.

Written for US businesses looking to comply with state and federal IT GRC legislation, the IT Governance US blog will also provide guidance on cyber security and data management. From exclusive interviews with industry experts to product solutions and the latest news on data breach hacks, the blog will provide insights into the likes of cyber security, data protection, information management, the Payment Card Industry Data Security Standard (PCI DSS) and IT Service Management (ITSM).

To celebrate the launch of the new blog, IT Governance is offering one lucky individual the chance to win a free IT Governance training course of their choice. Training courses on offer include our ISO27001 Courses and the Virtual ITIL® Courses. Users need to subscribe to the blog before August 24 2014 to be entered into the free prize draw.

With its responsive design, this blog gives users access to all the latest IT GRC news, discussion and comment across America.
