RICHMOND HILL, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, August 5, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- A deal

I've known the D'Attile family personally and through business for over 40 years. I am honored that they have counted on the Balkan team to continue their tradition of fine service."

between Balkan Plumbing and R. D'Attile Sewer and Water Main Contractors has resulted in Balkan Plumbing taking over the D'Attile client list. A company spokesperson at Balkan said that the friendly merger of clients follows D'Attile's decision to leave the NYC sewer and water main industry after 40 years in the plumbing and contracting business.

Balkan Plumbing owner, David Balkan commented on the deal in saying, "I've known the D'Attile family personally and through business for over 40 years. I am honored that they have counted on the Balkan team to continue their tradition of fine service."

Balkan Plumbing now has a much larger client list so it wasn't long after the deal with D'Attile was completed that David Balkan announced that the company would be adding to their ranks of trained mechanics and staff. The company is actively seeking fulltime, year-round backhoe operators and crew leaders to handle the increased load.

R. D'Attile was in the sewer and water main business for over 40 years, earning a solid reputation for family values, honesty and integrity. When Robert D'Attile was looking for the right company to take care of his customers after deciding to leave the industry to pursue other interests, he had a tough decision to make. However, after thinking about the mutual respect and trust between D'Attile and the Balkan family the decision was an easy one, opting for David Balkan and Balkan plumbing. A handshake sealed the deal and the two client bases were combined in short order.

"We speak on a regular basis," said Balkan. "Robert cares a great deal about his clients and he provides a lot of guidance about how to handle them," he added.
