

Jeff Tricoli Of FloridaHomeValues.com Says 2014 Palm Beach Home Values Up 16 Percent

Palm Beach homeowners see 16 percent rise in house prices, spurring some to list their Palm Beach homes for sale with the top selling listing agents.

PALM BEACH, FLA., UNITED STATES, August 7, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Palm Beach, Florida has experienced a considerable housing market price appreciation in 2014, according to Jeff Tricoli of FloridaHomeValues.com, boasting a 16 percent rise in real estate prices in the past year.

According to Tricoli, Palm Beach's highly desirable location for shopping and social life are important reasons for the historically stable Palm Beach County house prices.

"The Palm Beaches have always attracted folks who want a luxury lifestyle. There are amazing beaches, world-class shopping, and easy access to the water," he says.

Tricoli says Palm Beach County offers a unique lifestyle blend for residents including families, singles, and retirees.

"Palm Beach has only about 11,000 year-round residents, with a seasonal population almost triple that. So it definitely maintains a small town feel in spite of its world-class standard of living," he says.

According to Tricoli, Palm Beach homeowners are treated to world-famous yacht and golf clubs nearby.

"Palm Beach is known around the world for its luxury lifestyle," he says.

Tricoli says that while the extreme-luxury estates in Palm Beach can be priced as high as \$59 million, median Palm Beach house prices tend to be in the high $300,000's.

"This may be the perfect time if you're thinking of selling your Palm Beach home to find out how much it's worth," he says. "Our website www.FloridaHomeValues.com makes determining the price of your home fast and easy, and you won't get any high-pressure sales tactics."

About FloridaHomeValues.com

FloridaHomeValues.com is a site driven by real people with access to actual real estate sales data and local neighborhood information. Affiliated agents have "boots on the ground" in Florida cities, towns and neighborhoods, and don't use inaccurate machine-generated home valuation estimates. By contrast, home valuations are prepared by local professionals using real-life market considerations, such schools, neighborhoods, and the condition and age of the home. Some of the most popular areas served include Palm Beach County, Miami-Dade County, Broward County, Martin County, and St. Lucie County.
