

Scientific Reversal Of Diabetes Now Possible With New Step-by-step Program Explained By Nutritionist

Can diabetes be reversed? This medical mystery has now been solved by medical researchers with a simple 3-step diet plan

MIAMI, FL, USA, September 8, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Nearly 40% of American adults will develop and be diagnosed with Diabetes Type II. Diabetes is one disease from a larger group of known metabolic diseases. With Diabetes, high blood sugar levels continue over a prolonged period of time and may cause complications such as Stroke, Heart Disease, Blindness, and Kidney Failure.

This is why Diabetics, as patients are known, must use finger stick monitors to test themselves and monitor their sugar levels. Science now meets Nutrition since best-selling health expert and Nutrition strategist Matt Traverso has researched the science of the disease and has come up with a nutritional method of natural body detoxification allowing Diabetes' patients to avoid the drug manufacturers and suppliers.

"Beta cells - the cells that produce and regulate your insulin - surrounded by acids," says Traverso, "do not or cannot produce sufficient insulin. If alkalinity is not soon restored, disease, including diabetes takes hold."

Traverso believes that with the information in his guide, Diabetes sufferers can learn how to detoxify their body naturally, escaping the vicious cycle of relying on drug manufacturers and suppliers to control their insulin and blood sugar.
