

Intellivision® Flashback® Classic Retro Video Game Console to Debut at 2014 Classic Gaming Expo

LOS ANGELES, CA, USA, September 9, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Intellivision Productions, Inc., one of the pioneering names of the video game industry, will debut its new Intellivision Flashback Classic Game Console to the public at this week's Classic Gaming Expo in Las Vegas, Nevada. The Intellivision Flashback recreates the original video gaming experience of the award-winning Intellivision, released in 1980. It allows gamers to go back in time and rediscover that Intellivision games are just as fun now as they were then.

"The Flashback appeals to original Intellivision fans and new players alike," says Intellivision Productions President Keith Robinson, who was an Intellivision game designer in the early 1980s. "The game emulation is near perfect and the recreation of our signature hand-controllers is simply amazing. It even has the retro-style faux wood grain!"

The Intellivision Flashback includes 60 classic games built-in, including hits such as Astromash, Utopia, Shark! Shark! and B-17 Bomber, as well as the best-selling Intellivision sports titles and some previously unreleased games. The Flashback easily plugs into most televisions using a standard RCA connector. It is an affordable piece of video gaming nostalgia suitable for the whole family.

This year's Classic Gaming Expo will be the largest in its 15-year history, including a 7,000 square foot museum of historical and rare videogame artifacts and memorabilia. Attendees are made up of retro-videogame players, collectors, bloggers and reviewers. They can take part in new product demonstrations— including the Intellivision Flashback—plus enjoy an entire arcade of standup games and pinball machines set to free play, contests, chiptune concerts, movie screenings and panels of videogame VIPs, including an Intellivision Blue Sky Rangers panel with ten of the original game designers. The Expo is September 12-14 at the Riviera Hotel & Casino in Las Vegas. Tickets are $15 a day at the door.

"It's a win-win for us to have Intellivision at this year's show, debuting the Flashback," says Scott Schreiber, President of Vegas Retro Expo, LLC (operators of the Expo) and co-host of the monthly RetroGaming RoundUp podcast. "Intellivision has been a part of every CGE since 1999, and this year they have something that all attendees will love and have waited for: a chance to play Intellivision and its games again."

Show highlights from Intellivision:

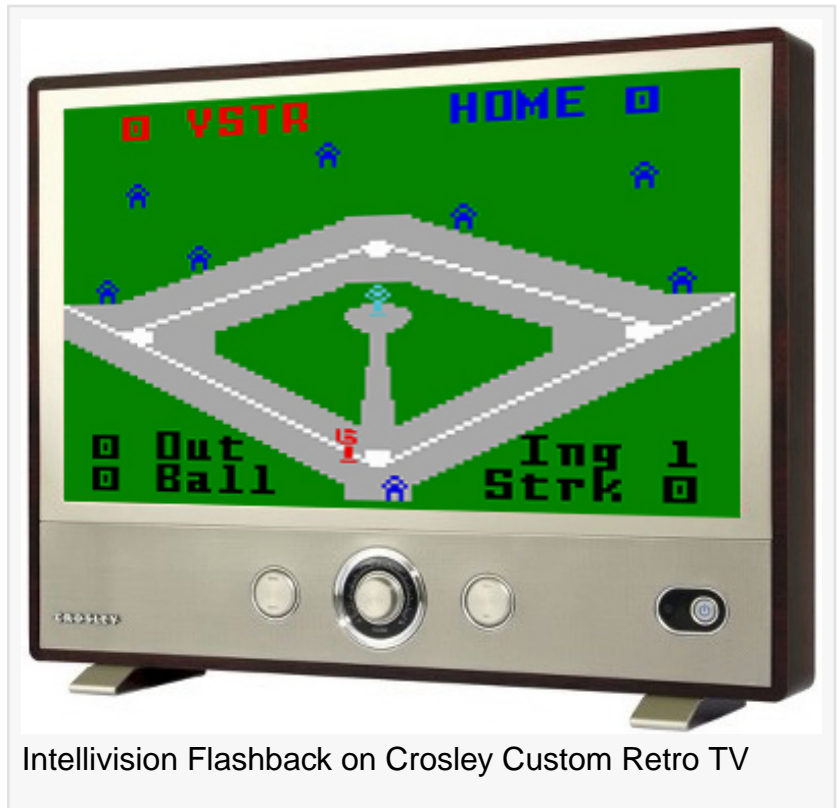

- World-premiere of Intellivision Flashback Classic Game Console
- Three demo stations set up with playable Intellivision Flashback units on Crosley Custom Retro 24" LED HDTVs
- Astrosmash Gen2™ and Shark! Shark! Gen2™ mobile games being released on iTunes
