Alex Grasu, DPT

Grasu feels that his journey into the role of a physical therapist, in particular to the field of sports medicine, is due to his exposure to sports as a child – and his subsequent injuries.

"I need to thank my family and my constant exposure to sports for why I decided to become a Physical Therapist. Growing up I was able to play several sports (soccer, tennis, baseball), resulting in injuries along with exposure to the rehabilitation process which peaked my interest for helping other individuals. I look forward to learning and spending my time helping my patients in sunny Southwest Florida," Grasu explained.

Because the doctors at Jaffe Sports Medicine (<http://jaffesportsmedicine.com>) are board certified physicians, patients do not need referrals to schedule appointments. The team can perform diagnostic tests, establish comprehensive treatment programs, and even order MRIs and other scans as needed in order to properly treat the patients they serve.

"We're very excited to have Alex join our team. His enthusiasm for the field and passion for helping others is a perfect match for the type of treatment our patients need to help them meet their goals for healing and recovery," Dr. Peter Jaffe of Jaffe Sports Medicine said.

Patients who come to the Naples physical therapy practice are not all sports injury cases. Jaffe Sports Medicine treats a wide range of injuries resulting from auto accidents, diseases and physical conditions, and post-surgical conditioning in addition to sports injuries. The Jaffe Sports Medicine Naples offers more than physical therapy by offering a pain management component to the treatment. The staff understands that the two treatments often work hand in hand and that healing is rarely a one dimensional process.

Anyone struggling with pain and/or motion issues resulting from injuries, accidents, medical conditions, or surgeries should call the downtown location at 239-331-8551 or the North Naples Veterans Park location at 239-254-7778 to schedule an evaluation.
