The HTML slideshow maker V1.4.2 provides more powerful features, allowing users to present their ideas in a more engaging manner to achieve the desired success.

GUANG ZHOU, GUANG DONG, CHINA, September 17, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Focusky is a creative presentation making software that is popular worldwide for its robust and user-friendly features. A number of users across the world use the software for creating presentations and reach their target audience with a convincing approach. The makers of the software, Focusky Software Company now releases its updated version, Focusky V1.4.2 for both Windows and Mac platforms. The new version of the free HTML slideshow maker comes with more capabilities and advanced features for users to create feature-rich and animated presentations.

According to the company spokesperson, more than 20 animation effects have been added in the latest version. One can add the animation effects throughout the object paths and animations can be set up to play simultaneously or one by one. This helps users to create more dynamic and lively presentations. The creative presentation software can now support importing content from PowerPoint slides and editing the imported slides. It now supports background music too, so that the presentation can be turned more interesting and engaging.

The spokesperson reveals that the new Focusky software makes the task of creating presentations simple but more result-oriented. One can easily use the Shift key to draw vertical and horizontal lines. This significantly improves the line drawing function. Moreover, it now supports OTF font on canvas and also supports SVG format images on canvas. A user can also check and replace the system font at the time of loading the project file.

In the new version, all bugs have been fixed to enhance the experience of the users. This free
