

Tradetec Skyline Chicago Unveils Newest Collection Of Trade Show Displays -- Inflatable Exhibits

Skyline Exhibits unveiled their latest collection of air-powered displays. The Skyline WindScape - a revolutionary new solution for small to large exhibits.

CHICAGO, IL, USA, September 22, 2014
/EINPresswire.com/ -- Exhibitors looking for an innovative new way to market their can choose from the latest resource from Skyline Exhibits -- Skyline® WindScape.

WindScape solutions are the first trade show displays in the market that use inflatable technology and are available exclusively from Skyline Exhibits. WindScape comes in 46 different shapes, including everything from large hanging structures, 16-foot towers, to smaller exhibits; like backwalls and small overlays. These exhibits are extremely lightweight and easy to install and pack up so that a full 10-foot backwall exhibit can fit into a single, convenient carrying case.

One of the biggest benefits of inflatable exhibits is that they can be installed or dismantled in just a few minutes. Each exhibit can use either a regular electrical plug or a rechargeable battery pack, which means these exhibits can be used even if there's no power source available.

"Our inflatable exhibits have been in development for years and we know our clients will appreciate our commitment and attention to detail. The Skyline WindScape system has gone through a rigorous testing process and the clients who have used WindScape told us that it made their entire exhibit experience more cost effective and easier than they expected," said Ken Buckman, CEO of TradeTec Skyline (<http://www.ttskyline.com>).

The Skyline WindScape system cost is comparable to a traditional trade show exhibit, however customers quickly find that the system saves them a significant amount of money due to no storage, material handling, and a reduction in shipping costs.

In addition to trade shows, the system can be used during marketing events, backwalls for television studios, popup displays in stores and even to create a private space for health screenings or sales meetings.

"If you're looking for a unique exhibit that needs to be set up and dismantled quickly, while being light enough to carry, the Skyline WindScape is the perfect solution. Before you purchase your next exhibit, give us a call to see if the WindScape is right for you," said Buckman.
