DETROIT, MICHIGAN, UNITED STATES, October 20, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Detroit, Mich. – The groundbreaking website EliteSportsNetwork.com is proud to announce their official launch for high school and college football fans, coaches, and players!

Users of EliteSportsNetwork.com will now be able to access articles on their favorite amateur football teams at the Division-I, Division-II, Division-III, Junior College, and NAIA levels as well as news on all high school football teams across the nation. With exclusive in-depth player interviews, player evaluations, camp coverage, and highlight reels, Elite Sports Network is a one-stop shop for the amateur player, college and high school coach, and for the avid football fan.

Elite Sports Network also boasts a free state of the art player profile package called "Recruit the Nation" that allows high school and junior college players to create their own player profiles and update their status daily aiding in their college recruiting. The offering is a unique turn in a previously outdated format left to controllers of various websites to update information on hundreds of thousands of players year after year throughout the U.S. leaving talented recruits without recognition.

The one of a kind "College Coaches' Dashboard" allows high school coaches to update their team's roster and statistics day by day providing college coaches a customizable recruiting tool allowing recruiters to follow along the daily updates of hundreds if not thousands of aspiring recruits seeking to play football at the collegiate level.

After 13 years of highly successful Elite Football Network Big Man Camps and EFN Exposure camps nationwide, Elite

Sports Network has expanded upon that success to help amateur football players at all levels. The well planned site has capacity for endless player profile pages with over 16,000 team pages that expand beyond the usual amateur teams to include 7x7 travel teams.

Elite Sports Network is easy to navigate with drop down menus to help guide the end user allowing each visitor the ability to toggle between college or high school football news, athlete profile searches, and camp coverage nationwide.

“Elite Football Network is a sports media company dedicated to covering all aspects of high school and college football on a national level. EFN is one of the most technically advanced and in-depth platforms on the market today created for fans, athletes, parents, and high school and college football coaches, George Yarberry, founder of Elite Sports Network.”
