

Tate Publishing and Author Mick Zimmerle to Considering a New 2015 Release!

Dayton, OH— Tate Publishing's success continues to grow as they market books for both upcoming authors in the industry—authors such as Mick Zimmerle.

DAYTON, OH, UNITED STATES, October 28, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Director of Book Acquisitions, Stacy Baker said, “ 'The Hound and the Basketballs' is the first book published by Tate from Zimmerle. Terror stalks 1950s Dayton, Ohio, as a local legend once benign turns deadly. The Moorhouse dog was renowned for mourning the little boy he failed to save, howling forlornly in the Woodland Cemetery in the centuries following his death. Yet it seems his howls have turned from tragic to vicious as attacks, and now a murder, make headlines. At the heart of the mystery are three inquisitive children. Tait, his sister Katie, and best friend, Marcus, are on the case, staking out the cemetery, attending viewings, and following suspects all while juggling school, basketball tryouts, and starring in the school play, Hound of the Baskervilles. Is the hound really a ghost turned deadly? Or is there more to the mystery? The game is afoot as the children's school play begins to seem more and more like reality in 'The Hound and the Basketballs.' We would love to have more books by this author in the future.”

“

Zimmerle is a talent writer with a promising future!
Stacy Baker, Director of Book Acquisitions
