

An insider's how-to make it in show biz and survive book

A book of rules, with examples taken from real-life anecdotes of working in the entertainment business.

LOS ANGELES, CA, USA, November 3, 2014

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Hollywood War Stories: How to Survive in the Trenches is an often funny, always enlightening, insider's view on how to break into the world of show business and navigate its shark-infested waters.

Filled with anecdotal "war stories" of working with Academy-award winning talent, each short chapter explains a rule to follow to "make it" in Hollywood, from "'Good Ideas Don't Just Fall Off a Turnip Truck,' Humility is a Highly Over-rated Virtue," "Book your next job before the Star or the Studio Head Croaks" and many more.

It is a contemporary view of the show business roller coaster ride that will instruct and entertain the multitudes who can't get enough of Entertainment Tonight's behind-the-scenes look at the politics of the music, acting, comedy, television, and movie businesses.

Author Rick Friedberg is an award-winning writer/director of movies (Spy Hard), episodic TV (CSI-Miami), reality TV (The Real Housewives of Orange County), documentaries (Rodeo Cowboy), music videos ("Hot for Teacher"), and national and international TV commercials (shown during the Super Bowl, World Series, NBA playoffs and the 2000 Summer Olympic Games).

Rick Friedberg has written a wild, riveting account of his Hollywood life. He's a great storyteller. Loved it.

Adriana Trigiani, N.Y. Times bestselling author

Coming from Cheyenne, Wyoming, with no family, friends or contacts in the entertainment business, author Rick Friedberg's experiences, told with candor and humor, encompass the do's and don't of dealing with the frustrations, rejection and politics that can and must be overcome to forge a career in show business.
