Local author Gary Hohweiler recently teamed up with Tate Publishing to kick-start the publication process of his new book, A Journey from Fear to Freedom.

A Journey from Fear to Freedom is a devotional book that deals with fear, anxiety, and worry through God's solution. Hohweiler states that the lack of anything addressing fear in the Bible was what prompted her to write the book.

When asked about their decision to sign the book, Tate Publishing owner and acquisitions editor Trinity Tate-Edgerton responded, “[It] is a one of a kind inspirational book. This will always remind us that God never abandons us even if we have gone our own way.”

Hohweiler feels equally glad to have partnered with Tate Publishing, “when I contacted Tate, they were so responsive and made me feel like they too believed in the project and would do everything they could to get this in the hands of people who need it.”

In the hopes of helping people living in trepidation, Hohweiler designed the book to help readers let go of it and live in freedom through faith. “God's word is like medicine to the soul and spirit: apply it liberally daily until you walk in complete freedom of fear,” said Hohweiler.

Published by Tate Publishing and Enterprises, the book will be available upon its release through bookstores nationwide, from the publisher at www.tatepublishing.com/bookstore, or by visiting barnesandnoble.com or amazon.com.

Gary Hohweiler lives in Oklahoma with his wife and likes to pass time by fishing and gardening. He has been a marketing writer most of his adult life, but his real passion is for God's word. He has always loved to inspire people to reach their full potential; He feels it is much more fun to try to inspire believers through God's word.
