

FTI Now Accepting Applications for Owner-Operators

FTI is currently accepting applications for new owner-operators. A career as an owner-operator offers adventure and provides security.

MICHIGAN , DETROIT, USA, June 11, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- FTI, a Frederick-Thompson company, is a leader in the freight transportation industry. The FTI team includes more than 400 owner-operators serving the eastern and central United States, Ontario, and Quebec, each committed to delivering freight safely and on-time across the region. Founded in 1928, FTI is a family-owned business prided on treating its owner-operators like partners and investing in the future of its team. Backed by a knowledgeable and dedicated support staff and provided with extensive benefits and value-added services, owner-operators with FTI are put in a position to succeed. FTI is currently accepting applications for new owner-operators looking to join the FTI family.

The FTI philosophy is built upon meeting and exceeding customer expectations by providing owner-operators with an environment most conducive to success. Satisfied and highly-motivated owner-operators want nothing more than to deliver the best possible service to customers, with safe, efficient, and timely delivery of all types of freight. Ensuring the satisfaction of owner-operators is directly correlated to customer satisfaction, and FTI is committed to cultivating this positive environment.

A career as an owner-operator offers adventure and provides security. A carrier like FTI cares about the futures of its individual owner-operators and helps to foster the high-demand skills that will lead to success for drivers. Drivers with FTI can rely on the company to provide proven customer service and outstanding communication, while also quickly addressing and eliminating transportation problems. With individual service from driver managers and settlement clerks, every need is promptly and effectively addressed.

FTI is proud to offer extensive benefits that go beyond industry standards. From competitive pay packages, industry-leading fuel caps, paid tolls, scales, and permits, fleet rates on truck insurance, free Trip Pak services and free Qualcomm satellite usage, FTI provides its owner-operators with plenty of complimentary or discounted perks. FTI charges no fees for starting-up and offers fuel cards, weekly cash advances if needed, and assistance with fuel taxes, taking concerns for the bottom line out of the equation.

Additionally, FTI supports owner-operators with value-added services like electronic data interchange (EDI) access, real-time digital tracking, proactive freight management, automated online reporting, partner carrier coverages, and integrated in-cab communication. Owner-operators also benefit from access to high-quality equipment, just-in-time deliveries and tractor leasing programs, and comprehensive health and medical packages are available. These extras and more separate FTI from other carriers and contribute to the company goal of providing its partners with complete and total satisfaction.

The online application process provides an easy and accessible route to applying to become an owner-operator with FTI. For both individuals looking to launch a new and rewarding career as an owner-operator, and experienced owner-operators seeking a mutually-beneficial and supportive partnership with a respected carrier, submitting an application to work with FTI could be a life-changing development. FTI is invested in the day-to-day, medium-term, and long-term success of each individual driver, and committed to securing a fruitful future for the company and its partners alike.

A partnership with FTI allows owner-operators to enjoy the freedom of working independently while simultaneously enjoying the advantages of being supported by the resources of an experienced freight company intimately familiar with all nuances of the competitive transportation industry. Owner-operators manage their own obligations with flexible scheduling and independence, but the security and expertise of a large carrier service is always on hand.

FTI is excited to invite interested parties to apply to join the fleet and take the first step toward a successful future. Whether an individual is embarking on an adventurous and rewarding new career as an owner-operator or is an experienced driver looking to combine independence with the support and security of an established freight company, FTI welcomes all applicants.
