

Local author, blogger signed to publish imaginative and inspiring children's book

Local author Madaline McFarland has partnered with Tate Publishing to kick-start the publication process of her book, My Mom is not an Octopus.

SODDY DAISY, TENN. -- , UNITED STATES, November 8, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- My Mom is not an Octopus takes a fun look at the silly things that mom's say when kids ask them to do the impossible. In the process, a young boy learns that his mom is pretty perfect just the way she is and that when everyone helps out, there's much more time to play.

[It] resonates with fun and humor with just the right twist!”

Shannon Lloyd, Acquisitions Editor

Inspired by her own children, McFarland hopes to be a beacon of hope to moms and kids to make it easier for them to understand and relate to one another, and, at the same time, bring humor and fun to the household.

"My Mom is not an Octopus is such a relational and imaginative read. Children come to learn how to respect their moms and it resonates with fun and humor with just the right twist," shares Shannon Lloyd, Acquisitions Editor for Tate Publishing.

"Kids have such wonderful imaginations and parents can sometimes say the strangest things. That combination alone could supply endless material for future stories. Like any author, I hope that people will love this book and that it will become a necessity for parents everywhere to add to their libraries," says McFarland during a press release interview about her book.

Published by Tate Publishing and Enterprises, the book will be available upon its release, through bookstores nationwide, from the publisher at www.tatepublishing.com/bookstore, or by visiting barnesandnoble.com or amazon.com.

Madaline McFarland and her husband David (Coach Mac) both run a blogging site www.ignitingfamilies.com which serves as a platform that they are building to help and encourage families to become all that they were created to be. Madaline has been working as the Director of Elementary Ministries and Assistant Children's Pastor at Abba's House in Hixson, Texas. Being the mother of three wonderful boys prompted Madaline to use her creativity to explain things to them in the way that only kids can. During her spare time, Madaline loves working in the yard, making Christmas cookies, scrapbooking, and playing with clay.
