

The Simply Believe Movement

LAS VEGAS, NEVADA, UNITED STATES, November 17, 2014

/EINPresswire.com/ -- 20 year old entrepreneur Carson Hambleton is the founder of The Simply Believe Project. The primary goal of the project is to empower people who are in need of encouragement in finding their own personal sense of purpose in their lives. This is a challenging and ambitious goal. However fostering this sense of self-worth into individuals will ultimately allow them to improve their lives and that benefit is priceless.

Albert Einstein was once quoted as saying “the significant problems we face cannot be solved at the same level of thinking we were at when we created them”. This statement embodies the spirit of The Simply Believe Project. Success does not come by continuing to follow the same path to mediocrity. Those who are not where they think that they deserve to be in whatever field they pursue need to face their fears. It is only by confronting their obstacles that people can go after what they really want in life. This is easier said than done and sometimes a little reassurance and motivation can go a long way. That is the benefit of The Simply Believe Project to society. Carson is a powerful motivator who is apt at connecting with an individual's thoughts, beliefs and actions in order to understand their thinking. Capturing the thought process of an individual will enable them to understand why they act a certain way. Improving on a thought process will eventually improve a person's behavior and help them accomplish the goals they set for themselves. There are a lot of potentially distressing elements in our society. Many people are more than willing to be demeaning to others and this creates a prevalent culture of negativity. We are all united so an inspired positive culture also influences those around us and also our community. The Simply Believe Project builds this culture and thereby lays a foundation for building a better world one person at a time.

There are many different parts that encompass the project. The symbol for The Simply Believe Project is an inspirational bracelet. This fashionable bracelet is a constant reminder of the values of dedication and self-confidence. In addition there will be a powerful Internet presence supporting this project. This has begun with the Simply Believe blog on steptome.com. There are other avenues to spread this positive message coming soon. A YouTube channel named "Personal Power Wednesdays" will be launched in order to promote personal development. These episodes will begin with a review of timing, self-worth, self-reflection and the power of belief. The remaining primary 11 episodes will cover topics such as initiating change, living with passion and seeking adventure. A podcast will soon follow as well. Simply Believe Master Mind Seminars will begin next year as an opportunity for a powerful learning experience. Carson will be inviting successful individuals with a unique perspective which can only be gained through extensive experience to these seminars. Each seminar will have its own theme. Finally those who text the word "Believe" to 84464 will receive a free daily inspirational text on behalf of the project.

A large part of building this motivational brand is creating a network of successful business people who can lend their expertise and advice. With this fact in mind there is a current Indiegogo crowdfunding campaign in order to foster this networking initiative. Successful completion of this campaign would allow Carson to attend an entrepreneurial boot camp in December in New York City. This boot camp will be attended by many other highly motivated entrepreneurs who would be willing to assist the project in achieving its goals. There are many crowdfunding rewards available for funders:

- $1 – A thank you
- $5 – Handwritten thank you letter
