

FloatPro Released New and Improved Floating GoPro and Waterproof Camera Strap

Bigger and Better Strap for GoPro and Water Activities Lovers Released

SAN FRANCISCO, CA, UNITED STATES, November 22, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- FloatPro, an up and coming player in GoPro and waterproof camera accessories, on November 21 launched its second version of FloatPro floating GoPro and waterproof camera strap on Amazon.com after a successful launch of the first FloatPro for GoPro two months ago. The new and improved version of the floating wrist strap is bigger and can float heavier gadgets in addition to all models of GoPro such as most point and shoot waterproof cameras and dry bags to carry other valuables with the weight of up to 9 ounces.

FloatPro floating wrist strap for GoPro and waterproof camera, weighing just 1.2 ounce, is the most versatile and highest quality camera float in the market. The float strap is designed to fit all models of GoPro, most compact waterproof cameras, waterproof phones, and still offer stylish comfort in all wrist sizes for both men and women. Kris Tan, co-founder of FloatPro said "Our strap is made of high quality neoprene material that is used in wet suits which makes it the strongest and most durable strap on the market that can hold a waterproof device in both fresh and salt water such as the ocean or the lake. This material also enables the camera float to dry off quickly."

The floating wristband comprises of a solid black color with neon orange trim strap that provides high visibility in water from far away. With its proper length of lanyard the camera float allows users to take photos with one hand. While its quick release clip allow users to securely attach the floating strap to a GoPro or camera with one hand as well.

This accessory is suitable for people who enjoy water sports and activities that want to keep their GoPro and waterproof gadgets safe and secure. The floating strap also operates well with waterproof phone cases, float bags, camera housings and phone pouches. The FloatPro camera float also comes with a one-year no hassle satisfaction guarantee that allows customers to buy with confidence.

Features of the FloatPro Camera Float Wrist Strap include:

- Solid black color with neon-orange trim for easy visibility in the water
- Made of high quality neoprene material used in wet suits making the strap strong and durable
- Thin and gilding design to fit all wrist sizes

FloatPro camera float is made for use with all water activities such as diving, snorkeling, surfing, boating, water rafting, and more.
