This news is well received by Highbank, as this LNG site is yet another potential major location for sales of the Company's construction aggregates.

14.11.14 Site Inspection

Our director, Mr. Jim Place met on site with representatives of an International engineering firm tasked with identifying viable sources of construction aggregate for an unnamed multinational energy corporation. Mr. Place came in from Stewart, B.C. by company workboat to meet the Engineers who flew in to the site by helicopter. The inspection was completed and Mr. Place will be providing details of the initial sample test reports to the engineering firm.

13.11.14 JAPEX Breaks ground on its "Soma Port" LNG terminal- Fukushima Prefecture

Vic Bryant comments, "the official JAPEX press release affords some very telling insights as to the production timing for the Petronas led PNW LNG consortium (JAPEX 10% -12 million ton stake). "The press release specifically references the source of the LNG coming to this new terminal as from the Port of Prince Rupert, although they further stated the terminal will be receiving LNG from other unnamed sources. Scheduled start of operations, March 2018".
