

New Online Platform Set To Change How Women Seek Advice From Experts

The world's first international, online advisory platform, specifically developed to connect women with professionals through virtual consultations.

TORQUAY, UNITED KINGDOM, December 22, 2014 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Gilvah.com launches the world's first international, online advisory platform, specifically developed to connect women with professionals through virtual consultations.

Designed to be a true, "one-stop" professional online service, Gilvah is set to transform how women seek professional, one-to-one advice and support from the likes of coaches, accountants, fitness experts, and nutritionists. Developed around bespoke software, the Gilvah platform makes it easy for women to book virtual consultations with recognised experts across a range of categories, from the comfort and convenience of their home.

Founder, Gisa Ellis explained that Gilvah.com is based on her vision to use available technology to make professional, personalised advice available and accessible to all women across the world.

Gisa said: "As women, we juggle many responsibilities. We lead busy lives and this can make it tricky to commit to meeting with a professional on a regular basis – especially if you have to travel to their offices. As a result, far too many women go without the trusted support, which could help them make positive changes in their lives. I see Gilvah.com as the natural next step for women who want to work one-to-one with a professional, but can't find or make the time to meet an expert locally. By using the platform to book a virtual consultation, women are no longer constrained by geography or 9-5 appointment times. Instead, they can benefit from the expertise of professionals in different countries and different time zones, and receive trusted advice in their own home. In short, Gilvah.com is ready to empower ambitious women and help them create a beautiful life."

Right now, women can join Gilvah.com and network on the platform for free, whilst experts can join the professional database at an early bird rate. Once registered, professionals can upload their profile and use the platform to avoid the administrative burden often associated with virtual consulting. With the Gilvah software seamlessly handling the bookings, email reminders, and invoicing, professionals can grow their business and promote their services to a global client base of women who are proactively seeking expert advice.

Gisa said, "It's early days, but I'm excited at the response of the women I've spoken with and the enthusiasm from the professionals who've already joined the database."
