Valentine's Day Weekend

America's Got Talent Winner Showcases at Soundstage

Back by popular demand to Baltimore after performing the National Anthem last summer at Camden Yards with the Orioles is Landau Eugene Murphy Jr., the dreadlocked classic crooner vocalist who won season six of NBC Television's America's Got Talent, a one million dollar grand prize, and a Columbia Records contract, will be performing Friday February 13th in Baltimore, MD at Baltimore Soundstage, at 124 Market Place Baltimore, MD 21202 at 9:00 PM.

Join Landau for an evening of music sure to please music fans of all ages. Tickets start at $35.00. Doors open at 8:00pm. For more information, including how to purchase tickets and make reservations, visit www.LandauMurphyJr.com, BaltimoreSoundStage.com, or call Baltimore Soundstage at 410-244-0057.

Followers of the America's Got Talent winner will be treated to tunes from Landau's Billboard #1 ranked debut CD "That's Life" and his holiday release "Christmas Made For Two", plus a sneak peek at titles from his upcoming third album, slated for a 2015 release. Landau's annual Christmas tour is a fan and media favorite; the always humble and smiling singer has performed holiday hits on national outlets including "CNN," "Fox and Friends," "The Wendy Williams Show," and live telecasts of the "Macy's Holiday Parade" and the "Hollywood Christmas Parade." His dozens of concert appearances have included Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas, the Apollo Theater in New York City, The Mercedes Benz Arena in Shanghai China, and performing for US Troops stationed in Europe.

Leading up to the show Landau will be available for phone and in studio interviews (schedule permitting), reserve your interview now! Landau will also be available after the show to meet with fans, pose for photos, autograph memorabilia, and spread some love around for Valentine's Day.
