Why are hundreds of businesses competing and participating? "The organic online search of a business instantly improves through participation. The business' web presence is increased and potential customers find proof of great customer service. By participating in the contest, a business creates a buzz of excitement for their company", said Eric Reamer, Co-Host of the Experience Pros Radio Show.

The purpose of a niche business directory such as the Extreme Customer Service Directory has many facets. When it comes to business, search is the first word in visibility. The Extreme Customer Service Directory is a niche business directory focusing on Colorado-based businesses and franchises to boost visibility and searchability!

Being included in the Extreme Customer Service Directory is key to generating online traffic. The goal is to be included in a few, quality niche directories to help your visibility, as well as your SEO. Think of a link on the Extreme Customer Service Directory as a link a business earns as a piece of organic content.

It's important to not only get your link on the site but also engage with the directory as much as possible. How does a business succeed within the Extreme Customer Service Directory? Members submit fan brags, share reviews received and get involved in comments and discussions to help bring even more visibility to a company. According to Small Business Trends, finding niche directories is important in terms of generating traffic to a business website.

Small Business needs to know, it's not too late to compete. To compete in your business category, join the Revolution in how people treat people in business <http://experiencepros.com/contest>.
