

The Believers Group, a Network of Faith

FORT LAUDERDALE, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, February 16, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- It is a sad fact but the good word of God is sometimes lost within the work of the entertainment industry. It should go without saying that the message of Our Lord and Savior needs to be remembered. It is this message which can empower people around the world to rediscover their faith. And those who are empowered by faith can achieve their goals in life on matter what those goals are. It is much easier to spread this message if groups work together in order to build a collective audience. This gives everyone's message a larger impact. This is especially true in the age of social media where networking is a powerful way to follow a movement which can change the world for the better. The Believers Group is an example of a collection of individuals which has banded together to tell their shared story. This group is dedicated to spreading their worship and explaining their love for God every day.

The Believers Project is a collection of art from the group which is bonded by their source of inspiration. These artists come from many different genres within the art world. This allows for a wide spectrum of artistic endeavors in order to spread the message of God in many different ways by many different talented people. This is a network of talent for His work and the beginning of a revolution in the entertainment industry of those who love God. These artists include many people in the music industry. Christian artists from all corners of the music industry such as country and rock have been highly successful. This is due to the fact that it is such an expressive medium and there is no greater expression of love than song. The compelling story of our Savior is going to be written by connected poets. There will also be several different types of visual artwork from different artists in order to help spread this message.

The path to God is an incomparable lesson but it is not the only lesson which The Believers Group is trying to teach. These artists believe that their talents were given to them for the purpose of loving and serving God. This notion comes with a responsibility to try to empower others. In short the Believers Group vows to entertain and educate everyone they come across. The movement is hoping to use art as a tool to influence people away from using drugs or alcohol. Another stated goal is to redefine dancing as an act of worship in order to give it added meaning. As this group continues to grow, they are contemplating working towards charitable projects. These projects will focus on assisting those with either mental or physical afflictions. To offer just one example of the positive influence of this group, a public prayer vigil for Bobby Kristina Brown was held on February 9th in Georgia. This was held in order to have people come pray for the recovery of the 21 year old young man. The Believers Group supported this project and promoted it on social media by reminding us that "God is in the healing business."

Ron Jackson is the man behind the Believers Group. Ron is both a professional radio personality and a disc jockey and is very comfortable in these roles. Ron also has professional experience as a graphic designer, online marketer and website developer. Ron is currently using his experience in order to foster and grow the group.

The Believers Group is passionate about celebrating their love for God and their attempt to help improve the lives of others. This includes teaching others about the positive lessons of fellowship and peace which can be drawn from the Bible. In order to support this worthy cause, a Kickstarter crowdfunding campaign has been set into motion until April 10th. Those who make a crowdfunding pledge of 100 dollars will be rewarded with a Believer gift pack. This includes quality Believer Compilation apparel and accessories. These rewards include a tee shirt, hat, key chain and bumper sticker. Funders will also be given a personalized autographed poster signed by all of the artists in the Believers Group.
