

Luxury Five Star Hotels in China Partner with HealthWay to Provide Clean Air for Guests

Luxury Hotels in China are giving guests the opportunity to experience relief from outdoor air pollution with clean air in their hotel rooms.

PULASKI, NY, USA, February 26, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Major Five Star Hotels in China understand the need to provide relief for people suffering with allergies and asthma. As the Chinese New Year begins though, sufferers are not seeing new relief in their air quality. In fact the air quality will worsen as the Chinese New Year festivities begin. Increase in travel and pyrotechnics are just a few reasons that over 100 cities in China will reach dangerous air quality levels over the next few weeks. On the eve of New Year, the air quality index (AQI) surpassed 300 in 106 cities, state-run Xinhua news agency reported.

As residents and tourist's travel for festivities, hotels like Hilton Beijing, Hyatt on the Bund, Intercontinental Beijing, Ascott Raffles Chengdu, and J.W. Marriott Tomorrow Square are amongst the many that have taken matters in their own hands by installing HealthWay air cleaning equipment in select rooms to comfort people that are especially sensitive to airborne pollution. President of Central New York based HealthWay Vinny Lobdell states, "We are proud that we can truly provide relief to those that suffer, our partnerships with these hotels shows the commitment they truly have to the comfort and well-being of their guests."
