

gUnify Integrates with RingCentral Connect™ Platform to Deliver Enriched Customer Experience

gUnify to provide RingCentral customers with improved workflow experience and enhanced productivity for law firms who use Clio.

IRVINE, CA, USA, February 26, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ --

gUnify the leading middleware company for the communications industry, today announced it will integrate Clio, the Cloud Based Legal Practice Management System for Lawyers with RingCentral, Inc.'s RingCentral Connect Platform™ to enhance their business applications for improved workflow and business productivity.

This collaboration will allow law firms to connect directly to RingCentral's communication platform and integrate call data automatically within Clio. Customers that use Clio and RingCentral will be able to seamlessly make phone calls and keep records with automatic logging.

"We are excited to team up with RingCentral to provide our joint customers with ready to use integrated cloud and next generation cloud communication solutions," said Oscar Rodriguez, CTO, gUnify. "Typically legacy on-premise solutions required specialized consultants and have been very expensive to integrate, but RingCentral Connect Platform™ was simple, easy and quick."

RingCentral Connect Platform™ provides a suite of tools and services including a developer portal, set of APIs, SDKs, sandbox environment, and tutorials. Developers can manage the full life cycle of custom applications: track applications in development, and move apps from sandbox to production.

"Integrated communications is the glue that holds business processes together for enterprise applications," said David Lee, VP Platform Products at RingCentral. "By leveraging RingCentral Connect Platform™, gUnify provides customers with improved workflow experience and enhanced productivity for RingCentral customers who use Clio."

Software developers, system integrators and customers can learn more and request access to RingCentral Connect Platform™ available in beta at <http://developer.ringcentral.com>.
