

Mary Jane Strain Games, Cards Enhanced

KANSAS CITY, MISSOURI , UNITED STATES, March 2, 2015

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Things are changing in the way society looks at the use of smoking marijuana. People are starting to understand that this is a recreational activity and should not be treated like a violent crime. In fact marijuana is now legal in the states of Alaska, Colorado, Oregon, Washington as well as Washington D.C. It can be argued that the prohibition laws which were in place against alcohol just under a century ago are a lot like the marijuana laws today. Prohibition was eventually abolished many decades ago because drinking was a recreational activity as well. Pot smokers are not real criminals. In fact, if anything, marijuana users are a community. Most of these people, which come from all parts of society and walks of life, just want to have a good time with their friends. It would seem that the best thing everyone can do is support this sense of community. Users should be free to both find ways to both celebrate marijuana use and have fun with it. DeAndre Morrow, who is also known as Dank Nity, is the CEO of Hustleaire. He understands that the marijuana community deserves to be able to have a good time. That is part of the reason why DeAndre developed Mary Jane Strain Games.

Mary Jane Strain Games is a brand new design of playing cards which is based on marijuana strains and weights instead of the traditional aces, kings, queens, jacks and numbers. The cards have a number of suits which are represented by strains including King Kush, Chocolate

Chip Cookies, Black Kush, Cherry AK-47 Kush, White Widow, Blueberry Yum Yum and Lemon Kush. Instead of numbers the cards use weight measurements like grams and pounds which makes the scoring methods slightly different than a normal card game. The game variations can be used in so many ways that they are virtually endless. Hustleaire has come up with ten of their own different twists on traditional card games. Each deck comes with playing instructions for all ten of these games. For example spades is now called strain. Strain has 54 cards in the deck and uses seven strains with each strain numbered in the order of their importance. King Kush is the spade suit. Other card games include Blunts R Trump, Fat Sack – which is a version of blackjack and Pushin' Weight. It is expected that players will create even more games by incorporating the different strain designs themselves. It will be exciting to see what players come up with. It is true that Mary Jane Strain Games came about partially due to the increase in the number of states which have accepted the legalization of marijuana. Ultimately Mary Jane Strain Games is a unique way for people to enjoy their favorite strains or to see what may potentially be their favorite strains. This makes Mary Jane Strain Games a great idea for pot smoking parties.

Hustleaire is a professional company which specializes in urban clothing, magazines, DVDs, books and custom merchandise. But Hustleaire is more than just a magazine. Mary Jane Strain Games is a must have series of cards for all marijuana users. In order to help with the full-scale production of this game there is a Kickstarter crowdfunding campaign taking place until April 10th. There are a lot of rewards linked to this campaign. For only 25 dollars funders will get a Mary Jane Strain Games deck, one copy of the game instructions and a printed box. A crowdfunding donation of 100 dollars comes with a Mary Jane Strain Games custom name deck. Funders will also be able to get their name or nickname on the back of each card underneath the logo in addition to the box and instructions.
