

Julia Neiman of Monetize Your Passion Academy to be Featured on CUTV News Radio

AQUA DULCE, CALIFORNIA, USA, March 20, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Among the many challenges facing us in the next decade is how we're going to create enough jobs, especially for young people. All teens and young adults deserve the opportunity to live the life of their dreams regardless of their circumstances. So this generation is being encouraged to pursue entrepreneurship. After all, you're never too young to start a business.

Julia Neiman is a youth entrepreneur empowerment coach and founder of the Monetize Your Passion Academy, where she trains coaches, life skills professionals and teachers how to teach youths to start their own businesses. The academy offers a blueprint for empowering young people to take responsibility for their own economic well-being by leveraging their passions to create their dream life.

"Many of these kids don't even know how to dream," says Julia. "I've always been a dreamer and I recognize the power and potential of dreams. I'm trying to encourage these kids to embrace their aspirations and take action to make their dreams come true. Can you imagine what a better life this would be if people were really doing what they loved?"

Julia founded the academy following a 20 year career as a social worker in the foster care section. While teaching financial literacy one day, Julia realized no one had taught her any of this information when she was growing up either. As a result, she'd developed some strong limited beliefs around money. So she started to do the necessary inner work to better help her clients.

"Being an entrepreneur is about a mindset," says Julia. "The purpose of the training is to make life better for kids in care, managing their time.”

Julia’s program is about creating a business around what you love to do. The program is supported by her book, Pick From the Passion Tree: Empowering Young Entrepreneurs to Start a Business

“We need to teach kids wealth creation,” says Julia. “You are not getting rich working for someone else. Having your own business is the only way to create wealth. When you work for yourself and you take responsibility for your own life, there are no limits.”

Close-Up Talk Radio will feature Julia Neiman in an interview with Doug Llewelyn on March 23rd at 4pm EST.
