SCOTTSDALE, ARIZONA, USA, March 27, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Studies confirm the importance of leadership development and the positive impact effective leaders can have on company performance. Organizations committed to leadership development often outperform their competition.

Margo Boster is the co-founder of ImpaQ Solutions, an organizational consulting firm concentrating on the people side of business. ImpaQ Solutions works with clients nationwide to improve business and organizational achievement while enhancing the experience of the people within those businesses. Margo specializes in providing effective leadership and management development that includes coaching, assessments and organizational support.

“Sometimes a business is successful, but they don’t understand why they’re successful and what they need to do to continue to succeed,” says Margo. “We work with companies to help them do more than they ever thought possible.”

Founded in 2010 along with her husband Dr. Mark Boster, ImpaQ Solutions offers nearly 60 years of senior level experience, including both private sector and federal service, bringing an unmatched record of success to their clients. Their innovation and fresh ideas have contributed to the growth and success of companies, and can give you a competitive advantage.

“

We work with companies to help them do more than they ever thought possible.

“We feel we offer something unique in that we both have a lot of experience and success in running companies and organizations. We wanted to take what we were really good at and share it with others,” says Margo. “When we looked at our strengths we realized this is what we wanted to do.”

Individuals often get promoted because they were good at what they did, but just because someone is a good contributor or manager does not mean they're going to be a good executive or leader. Margo says she'll often be called in to an organization when a team is not working together cohesively or performing as well as they should.

"I was them. I was that manager. When I became a leader I learned the hard way. So it's not theoretical to me. I understand it and relate," says Margo. "I'm very good at listening and asking the right questions. A lot of what I do as a coach is to help them increase their awareness, willingness and skills."

CUTV News Radio will feature Margo Boster in an interview with Doug Llewelyn on March 30th at 12pm EST.
