

New Job Site Launches for Local Caregivers in San Diego

A new job site for San Diego agencies, facilities and families to find local caregivers.

SAN DIEGO, CALIFORNIA, USA, March 31, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The newly launched job site, caregiver jobs san diego, now offers caregivers the ability to search for current local health care jobs in their San Diego community. Facilities, agencies and families are now able to quickly post jobs through the site to find these caregivers on a local level.

The caregiver jobs san diego website is visually intuitive for Job Seekers, speaking to the site's branding for caregiver opportunities in the San Diego area. The design complements the site's purpose, to provide San Diego with an easy and trusted way to both find a job as a caregiver and to find help when you really need it.

"Our site is a genuine partnership with our local community. The key is our relationships with the Career Services Centers at the top CNA and CHHA schools, ensuring a flow of quality graduates for those who post on our site," said Sterling Miles, Founder of caregiver jobs san diego. "With our specialization in caregivers, we have eliminated the stigma of hiring through generic, non-specific job sites. This rings true with the schools as well, who want to refer their students to high-quality job sites that correlate to their degree programs."

caregiver jobs san diego provides a fast solution for home health care agencies and skilled nursing facilities to quickly find local caregivers in order to maintain a consistent care plan for their clients and residents. Job Posters can easily select job requirements that designate the skill level needed for a specific shift. The site also serves as an important resource for families needing to hire privately. The step-by-step posting process makes it easy for families to create an effective post that will attract the right caregiver for their needs.
