

Egypt's Minister of Transport to chair summit on Egypt's maritime transport leadership

Decision makers & senior leaders are set to gather for the Egypt Ports & Waterways Summit (9-11 June) in Cairo to discuss Egypt's maritime transport sector.

CAIRO, EGYPT, April 21, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Under the official patronage of His Excellency Hany Dahy, the Minister of Transport, and supported by the Suez Canal Authority, Alexandria Port Authority, Damietta Port Authority, River Transport Authority and the General Authority for Dry Ports and Land Ports, the summit will see the respective authorities outline their visions for the future of transshipment and logistics in Egypt.

Many advancements are planned for Egypt's maritime sector, with expansions to the capacity of the Suez Canal soon to be ready, together with expansions to all of the country's major ports, Egypt is steadily moving towards its goal of being a top destination for global transshipment and value added logistics services. Changes are not limited to the coast too, with great strides being made to the country's dry port infrastructure and river transport sectors.
