

Poker Table Ratings Now Tracking PokerStars

Online poker data mining website, PokerTableRatings.com (PTR) is once again tracking player statistics from PokerStars.

POMPANO BEACH, FL, USA, April 23, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Online poker data mining website, PokerTableRatings.com (PTR) is once again tracking player statistics from PokerStars. PTR, now under new ownership, hasn't actively tracked player stats from PokerStars since April of 2012.

"Back by popular demand we are now actively tracking the statistics of players from the biggest online poker website in the world," commented a PTR spokesperson. "PokerStars has the lion's share of active online poker players so we're happy to be able to provide this service for the poker community once again."

Players who use PTR have access to a variety of tools such as Player Search, Buddy List, and Table Finder. They may also incorporate their knowledge of key statistics provided by PTR such as 'Voluntarily Put Money Into Pot' and 'Fold to 3-Bet' to exploit their opponents tendencies and create an overall edge.

Anyone can view their opponents overall win/loss statistics and utilize this information to sit in more profitable games. The online poker stats site also sells hand histories from which players can analyze past play of their opponents.

The reason for PTR's change of stance on tracking PokerStars remains unclear but many are speculating that it could be due to the recent change of ownership of PokerStars. In June of last year, shareholders of PokerStars parent Oldfort Group Ltd. agreed to sell their holdings to Amaya Gaming Group Inc. for $4.9 billion.

Since Amaya's acquisition of PokerStars, the site has undergone a variety of changes which have proven unpopular with their regular player clientele. Cuts have been made to the player bonus rates and VIP programs, and currency exchanges are now being charged a fee.

PTR tracking adds transparency to these changes so players can more easily see how they are impacted. Additionally, PTR's data has been instrumental in uncovering cheating scandals, most notably the infamous StoxTrader collusion team who used multiple PokerStars accounts to cheat other players.

PTR offers a 20 search free trial and a variety of plans that begin at $9.99 per month, and hand history packages beginning at less than $10.
