obsolete banknotes and a small group of U.S. obsolete banknotes including the New York Continental Bank $20 note that's rarely if ever been seen at auction. The scripophily session will feature close to 600 lots of rarely seen, plus highly collectible stocks, bonds and fiscal material.

Highlights from the scripophily session will include 19 different issued and specimen automobile stocks (including an extremely rare Indian Motorcycle specimen, one of the earliest motorcycle companies in business); and a discovery National Rockland Bank of Boston specimen share certificate from sometime between 1910 and the 1920s, with a charming Santa Claus vignette.

Finance certificates will include a Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation specimen shares from 1928. Breweries are represented by a Pabst Brewing Company, 1889 issued stock certificate, signed by Frederick Pabst himself as president, and Charles Best. Confederate bonds, always a hit with bidders, will feature two different Confederate Cotton Loans of 1863 that were issued in England.

Foreign bonds and shares will include issues from South and Central America, Europe, China and numerous other countries, with some speculative issues. Mining is represented by numerous highlights, including a Bodie Mining District, Standard Consolidated Mining Company 1881 proof stock certificate with coin vignette; A Nevada Territory, Gold Hill & Virginia Divide Mining Company 1863 Stock certificate; an exciting group of early Alaska stocks and more.

Railroads will be well represented, with over 240 lots of desirable and rare bonds and stocks. A highlight promises to be Part 1 of an impressive Texas collection put together over many years by a serious collector with many rarities offered, including one-of-a-kinds rarely seen at auction.

Lots to watch will include a New York Central and Hudson River Rail Road Company 1880's specimen bond, direct from the ABN Archives, offered for the first time.
