

Crwdpark brings crowdfunding madness to the Northern Europe!

Crwdpark provides an open and free forum to the latest trends in crowdsourcing and crowdfunding. Remember to sign up at www.crwdpuisto.fi

HELSINKI, FINLAND, May 7, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Crwdpark 2015 provides an open and free forum to the latest trends in crowdsourcing and crowdfunding. Crwdpark (in Finnish Crwdpuisto) is a two day event with such main topics as internationalization, open-source coding and crowdsourced content. Free admission, remember to sign up at www.crwdpuisto.fi.

Crwdpark is specifically for those startup companies, students, investors and decision-makers looking for funding and a global audience. Participants will get to hear about successfully crowdfunded businesses and projects, learn about the industry developments and get advice on the best practices.

One of the keynote speakers is Robert Wardrop, the Executive Director of the recently founded Cambridge Center for Alternative Finances: "Crowdfunding is highly relevant for small, export-oriented firms. There are P2P platforms and partnerships emerging that focus on lending in the supply chain, including cross-border," Robert states.

Co-founder of Crwdpark YC Felin believes that our lives are being transformed completely as we speak. "The next generation will buy services that are crowd innovated, enjoy entertainment produced by online communities and apply loans for their mortgages through p2p services. We can close our eyes to the change or prepare for it," YC says.

Over 30 experts and companies will share their experiences at Crwdpark on 8-9 May (www.crwdpuisto.fi).

GOING GLOBAL

Lessons learned by wellbeing companies (Yoogaia, Ambronite, Climbstation) and design companies (Vaja Finland and Beibamboo).

LIFE AFTER CAMPAIGN

Hard work starts after successful fundraising. With Cofounder, Gonthrion and Ironsky.

CROWD INNOVATION and CROWD ECONOMY

Companies outsourcing their design and product development to global expertise communities. More and more talents are supporting themselves through international projects and clients. Not science fiction, it is reality.

Main partners are the City of Helsinki, YLE (national public service broadcasting company) and Haaga-Helia University of Applied Sciences. This event is also supported by Castrén & Snellman, Fixura, Invesdor, Lexia, Multiprint, Solinor and Vauraus.
