

Dr. Tolu Adeleye of Wholesome Career Living, Inc. to be Featured on CUTV News Radio

VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, CANADA, May 15, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- It has often been said of executives that “what got you here is not enough to keep you there.” With rapid advances in technology and evolving ways of doing business, today’s executives require a multifunctional leadership capacity: influencing, mentoring, developing talent and building functional teams.

Dr. Tolu Adeleye is a certified executive leadership coach and the founder of Wholesome Career Living Inc., where she offers both career coaching and executive-leadership development solutions. Dr. Adeleye works with individuals at various stages of their career progression to hone their leadership skills and improve their performance.

“I enjoy empowering emerging leaders, helping them to discover a solid purpose which serves as a fulcrum for their leadership pursuits,” says Dr. Adeleye. “I always try to coach my clients from a strengths-based perspective.”

The most important skill of an emerging leader, says Dr. Adeleye, is an ability to foster a positive, collaborative environment in which they are the chief influence. Unfortunately, many individuals are promoted into leadership positions without leadership skills. Dr. Adeleye believes people should be offered coaching and appropriate leadership training that will enable them to succeed in their leadership roles.

Dr. Adeleye was originally a cancer research scientist with a PhD in biomedicine. However, in midlife a series of life changing events led her to transition toward helping people. Today, Dr. Adeleye works with emerging leaders from different industries. She is passionate about working with individuals in their 30s and 40s.

“Becoming that excellent executive leader is attainable with the proper tools and support,” says Dr. Adeleye. “Our proven solutions position you for success at all stages of your career.”

The best part about these skills, says Dr. Adeleye, is that they can be learned. You don’t have to be born a “natural” leader. Whether you find yourself in career transition, or you are an aspiring leader that simply wants to improve your leadership skills, Dr. Adeleye can offer a custom holistic solution to meet your needs. That's why the company is called Wholesome Career Living. The solutions we offer are designed to enrich you both in your personal lives and your career pursuits.

"I'm proud to be able to help my clients," says Dr. Adeleye. "I see the power in coaching other people. I revel in seeing people discover their purpose and live and work with it. I enjoy watching people succeed."

CUTV News Radio will feature Dr. Tolu Adeleye in an interview with Jim Masters on May 18th at 12pm EST.
