

Siluria Technologies joins the speaker line up for Gas to Liquids 2015

Dr. Erik Scher, Executive VP of Research & Development, Siluria Technologies will be presenting on the 18th annual Gas to Liquids conference

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, May 26, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Earlier this year, Siluria Technologies announced successful start-up of world's first demonstration plant to directly convert natural gas to ethylene. The plant is wholly owned by Siluria, and co-located at a plant operated by Braskem America, Inc.

SMi Group is delighted to announce Dr. Erik Scher, Executive VP of Research & Development at Siluria Technologies, joins the speaker line up at Gas to Liquids 2015. Mr. Scher will be presenting on day 1 of the conference on "Building with Natural Gas". Topics covered will include:

- Direct methane to ethylene enables a novel route to chemicals and fuels from natural gas
- Siluria's proprietary technology facilitates low capital intensities with standard and modular equipment
- Compatibility with existing energy infrastructure creates unique capital and operational synergies

Gas to Liquids 2015, taking place in London, on the 12th and 13th of October 2015, will provide delegates with insightful presentations on the latest developments within the GTL industry and discussions on the impact of the lower oil price on the current state of the GTL market.

This event is a unique opportunity for attendees to gain a competitive edge as well as key insight into the strategies to overcome the logistical, financial, technological and economic challenges associated with GTL projects.

Keynote speakers and regional expert speakers include:

- Neville Hargreaves, Business Development Director, Velocys
- Narsi Ghorban, Managing Director, Narkangan GTL Company
