

Charities Reaching Out Like Never Before Through IMPACTism.com

SOUTH FLORIDA, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, June 12, 2015
/EINPresswire.com/ -- IMPACTism.com is starting a crowdfunding campaign on Kickstarter that is seeking to become the online portal for Philanthropy. Instead of having many different online places to search for nonprofit organizations, the goal is to have only one destination, IMPACTism.com. No matter what charity you support or are looking to support, IMPACTism.com is there.

One of the major things that IMPACTism.com wishes to improve is the ability to allow charities to amplify their programs, donor levels and impacts. Apart from organizations own site, IMPACTism.com is the one place on the web that they can promote themselves fully in many aspects.

Another major feature of IMPACTism.com is a platform relevant for philanthropy news. News from nonprofit organizations and CSR businesses that help make online giving more interesting. IMPACTism.com allows for communication between charities and allows them the ability to work together and focus their efforts and for donors to reach them for support. Finally, IMPACTism.com invites donors to make a donation directly to the charities for no fee!

Jack Karako is the founder of the project and the idea behind IMPACTism.com. He has thirty years of fundraising experience. Being a community civic leader he works on several nonprofit boards and has worked closely with leaders in strategic planning. It is Jack Karako's passion to help
