Snail has announced that his officially launched the world's very first style-oriented, retractable wall charger for smartphones, tablets, and more. The brand new charger will offer a charging for devices that have a micro USB port or lightning connector. To bring Snail to the world, the company has launched a Kickstarter crowdfunding initiative.

In the shape of a snail and available in a Seven beautiful range of colors, Snail hopes to change the way people look at chargers. The problem with modern chargers is that they lack appealing design and practicality, leaving consumers a "take it or leave it" stance on available chargers. Snail features a profiled design, a 70 centimeter retractable charging cable, and a LED indicator to show users when their device is on charge .
