UK Telomere Testing

The regular price of the testing service is £199.99 but generous quantity discounts are available to resellers and/or medical practitioners worldwide.

The easy to use testing kits are sent out free to buyers of their cycloastragenol based product HTA98™ (www.hta98.com) and the buyer takes their own sample and returns it to the laboratory for testing and then receives access to an online report.

This method makes the procedure competitive, easy and convenient. It saves the client from having to undergo blood tests and there is no need to make appointments with doctors or clinics.

The Longevity Revolution™ recently announced the launch of their free online Internet TV channels at www.thelongevityrevolution.tv where there are hundreds of informative videos about a 40 year history of longevity research related to natural non pharmaceutical discoveries and a link to a free online University course on the causes of aging. There is also a link there to a worldwide business offer for resellers and/or medical practitioners.
