

Hales Global Group Brings Domestic, International Businesses Together With Strategic Partnerships

Partnerships cemented by Hales Global Group bring economical benefits, innovation.

WASHINGTON, D.C., DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, June 21, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Hales Global Group has defined its business development company by specializing in seeking out international solutions for domestic programs. For global companies that want to acquire highly sought after contracts with the American government, Hales Global Group delivers innovative opportunities.

Hales Global Group has brought together a number of international companies and domestic opportunities. For instance, when the BP oil spill left American experts scrambling to find a product that could be used to effectively approach a spill of such a large magnitude, Hales Global Group sought out a German-innovated product. This product was brought to BP to be used to clean the largest oil spill in U.S. history. Hales worked between the BP London headquarters and the German company to land a contract with the U.S. government. Final testing proved that the product worked effectively but contained metals that would not be approved by the EPA for treatment in the Atlantic Ocean. www.halesglobal.com

On another government assignment, the Hales Global Group team worked with the Department of Defense to secure jet fuel abroad in countries such as Switzerland and Mexico. When the federal government needs assistance with procuring specialized products from international sources, Hales Global Group has become one of their most trusted resources. Working together on numerous, diversified projects in countries around the world, Hales Global Group and the American government have seamlessly worked together to bring critical global resources to the United States. www.halesglobal.com

Hales Global Group also works with domestic companies to provide the robust business development tools and strategies needed to catapult them to success. Whether a company needs help penetrating its target market or sifting through management and senior level concerns, the team at Hales Global Group is ready to offer masterminding assistance, guidance, resources, and more. Of leading Fortune 500 firms, more than 50 companies have contacted Hales Global Group with their focused business development needs.

Another cornerstone partnership was recently forged by Hales Global Group as part of a deal between two of America's largest billion-dollar government contractors. Hewlett Packard (HP) and Booz have spent more than $3 million on a high-tech platform that is the largest project of its kind in the history of the financial industry.

"I am very proud that our dedication to the success of businesses has shown through in our demonstrated track record of success. We are excited that more and more businesses are entrusting their business development needs in our hands, and we look forward to seeing what will come," said Larry Hales, CEO at Hales Global Group.

Other industry experts have also taken notice of the Hales tradition of excellence. Dr. Harry Kutzman, founder of Aura Systems, holder of 40+ patents, and the winner more than $100 million in U.S. government contracts, said about Hales Global Group, "If I could sell like Larry Hales, I would own the world."

Specializing in contract acquisition and negotiation, Hales Global Group is an expert at utilizing global resources to deliver needed products and services to domestic businesses. With a senior team of results-driven, initiative-taking professionals, Hales Global Group offers high level business services backed by practical business expertise and commitment to the task at hand.
