

Every Opportunity loss is an opportunity cost: Australian Plant Shutdown and Turnaround Success Story

The press release is about the Australian success story in controlling and minimizing the issues related to shutdown and Turnaround projects.

PERTH, WESTERN AUSTRALIA, AUSTRALIA, June 23, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Ever wondered what it takes to be a first-class organization? Continuous improvements and trainings are the key strategies for these corporations, especially when it comes to plant maintenance and TAR projects, it requires a lot of efforts and cost to maintain a plant, and it costs 10 times more when there is unexpected shutdown project. How to avoid these issues? What are the needed techniques? What are the latest industry methods for monitoring and assessing work?

The Australian Plant shutdown and Turnaround Forum brings together all the leading industry experts who are going to share the up-to-date procedures in planning an efficient TAR project to maximize the efficiency and minimize turnaround duration and cost.

The conference will have more than 15 leading industry experts who are specialized in Oil & Gas, Mining, Utilities, HSE, Petrochemical, Maintenance & Reliability, Production, Operations and so on. Participants will gain a lot of benefits starting from answering the latest issues in shutdown and turnaround industry, networking with many potential people, sales opportunities and many more.
