Miami Is Not The Only Place Bringing The Heat

NASSAU, BAHAMAS, July 6, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The star-struck Sierra, a recent grad from Messiah College, stirred quite some chatter with over 1,200 retweets of her post and her candid pictures of Dwyane Wade, LeBron James, their wives and fellow friends Chris Paul of the Los Angeles Clippers and Carmelo Anthony of the New York Knicks.

For lucky vacationers visiting Atlantis this may have been a once in a lifetime opportunity to see the NBA stars without their jersey's and uniforms on. But for Bahamians and in particular, those who work at world-class resort, this is not a first time sight. The Bahamas happens to be one of the favorite getaways for the two happy couples who find their ways there frequently.

Wade and James are close friends and it's reported by an eyewitness that the vacationers were sleeping on a yacht docked in the crystal blue Bahamian waters.

More importantly, The Bahamas and the Miami Heat have a long-standing and very mutual partnership with each other. This sighting is just one of many that could draw out those conclusions. It has even been hinted that there are some very exciting things planned for next season in relation to the two entities. Greg Rolle, Senior Director for The Bahamas Sports Tourism Division had this to say.

"The partnership with the Miami Heat opens doors for our destination and The Bahamas is their home away from home."

With the latest news that Dwyane Wade has re-signed with the Heat, it seems The Bahamas will be happily hosting the superstar during the off and perhaps the on-season, as The Islands Of The Bahamas are a close flight from South Florida. So if fans aren't able to make it to a Heat game, no problem. Just make your way to The Bahamas and snap a few celebrity candid photos of your own!
