

Introducing Conectaballs – The New 3D Logic Game taking Kickstarter by Storm

Leonid Braginsky is officially introducing his premium logic and reasoning game to the market starting in 2015.

MANHATTAN BEACH , CA , UNITED STATES , July 15, 2015

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Conectaballs is a fascinating brain-training device that encourages tactical learning in children and adults alike.

Timeline

Connectaballs has been in development stages, making sure that it is 100% perfect when released to the market. Here's what's planned for the upcoming months:

Beta Testing- Complete
Prototyping- Complete
Manufacture Sampling- Complete
Kickstarter Pre-Sale- In progress (until full funding)
Manufacture Conectaballs for Market- planned July/August 2015
Ship to Market- Planned August/September 2015

The developer has already done a lot of imagination and development to make sure Conectaballs meet the end-users wildest expectations. Once they reach full funding ($25,000) they will begin to manufacture these little geniuses for market. They're already 55% of the way there. Consumers can pre-order Conectaballs set on their Kickstarter website to make sure the product arrives as soon as possible.

Create problems to solve and test cognitive abilities with this amazing system of balls and elastic string. Not only can Conectaballs be used to train and work the brain, but it is also a great relaxation tool, giving the mind a break from studying or working while keeping maintaining mental sharpness. With its perfect combination of entertainment and relaxation, this toy-like tool is great for everyone.
