

Medical Shipping Company Looking To Shift Industry, Says ShipCritical

ShipCritical Offering Better Logistics Options to Offices and Facilities Globally

NAPLES, FL, USA, July 29, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The shipping industry is changing fast, and the need for better logistics management has become increasingly clear over the past few years. For companies in the world of medicine, though, that doesn't always come easy, and it often comes at a higher than average price. ShipCritical is moving to change that with a number of helpful logistics options for practices, hospitals, labs, and other facilities worldwide.

Varying Levels of Service

Not all medical shipping needs are the same, and ShipCritical created varying levels of service to help address that. Some projects may require an On Board Courier. Others may simply need a blanket wrap, careful delivery to the facility. ShipCritical addresses all of those needs with their comprehensive options.

"Often you end up paying for a level of service you just don't need in medical shipping," said Joe Pavone – President and Founder. "That's just a waste of money in a time when budgets are shrinking across the board. Our service options mean you choose exactly what you need from us, and you pay only for that."

The service options are completely customizable, but they include Blanket Wrap, Less Than Truckload (LTL), and Truckload Shipping, same day, next day, or deferred air, and the unique On Board Courier option.

Watching It Move

Instant gratification is always nice, and ShipCritical provides that too, through their package tracking services. Utilizing individual GPS package trackers and a proprietary software solution, those who work with ShipCritical can see their package move through the entire journey, offering a level of peace of mind others simply don't.

"Medical shipping is a sensitive arena, and the ability to carefully track a package step by step is an absolute must, so we integrated it into our services," said Joe Pavone – President and Founder.

Medical shipping is changing fast thanks to ShipCritical, and as the healthcare industry continues to expand, so will the services of this unique company.

ShipCritical is a team of transportation and service professionals with decades of experience in all facets of Domestic and International air, ground and ocean transportation, distribution and Logistics.
