Using its unique algorithm, TripStreak will deliver results based on each individual's preferences and provide TripScores to help users quickly determine which trip is best for them, making travel planning faster and easier.

"We think we have the secret sauce that can disrupt how many people approach travel planning," said TripStreak Founder Charles Ralston. "Our technology allows consumers using TripStreak to dictate their experience by setting parameters ignored by other travel sites."

TripStreak will launch in August with flight search capabilities, and booking will be handled through Travel Team Consulting, which has been providing guidance for over a decade to big brands such as LVMH and AIG, as well as a select group of budding startups like TripStreak.
