"This is a very exciting time for everyone connected with NES Global Talent in Australia. The Construction sector in particular is very buoyant at the moment, and the Sydney skyline is testament to that. Furthermore we are also seeing a strong pipeline of work in the Civil and Infrastructure sector, which will provide strong demand for the firms' project sourcing capabilities. To ensure we can continue to exceed both candidate and client expectations we will be further increasing our capabilities and head count across the whole spectrum of our industry offerings. This growth in numbers is the driver behind our need for a larger footprint in Sydney."
