

SOHAR Port, Kuwait Port Authority, DP World, Abu Dhabi Ports Company to discuss port developments in the Middle East

The port development sector in the Middle East is witnessing growth and projects across the region have been gaining attention as to how they will be delivered.

DOHA, QATAR, August 19, 2015 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Moreover, it has been estimated that the Gulf countries are allocating US$36 billion to further develop their port infrastructure to handle bigger capacity and prepare for the arrival of mega vessels. Therefore, operators are now looking for solutions on how to increase operational performance and ensure the highest level of service for the new breed of mega-ships.

The industry is witnessing an intensifying competition between ports in the region that are vying to become the port of choice for trade routes.

Basma Dawwas, Conference Director, IQPC Middle East

“Therefore, we have organized the Port Development Week conference with the input from over 10 leading regional and international port operators and authorities to encourage discussion around this topic,” says Basma Dawwas, Conference Director, IQPC Middle East.
