

World's First DevSecOps Conference to Launch in London: DevSecCon 2015

DevSecCon is a newly formed, non-profit conference for DevOps and SecOps practitioners, run by practitioners.

LONDON, UK, August 27, 2015
/EINPresswire.com/ -- DevSecCon 2015 is the world's first conference dedicated to DevSecOps - the fusion of DevOps and SecOps - a topic on the cusp of changing IT culture as we know it.

Taking place on October 22nd at London's brand new Skills Matter venue, CodeNode, the DevOps and SecOps communities will come together to share new strategies that have been shaped to deliver continually secure solutions.

DevSecCon will feature a series of lightning talks by cutting-edge practitioners covering security automation, continuous testing, agile threat modelling and the adoption of a new mind-set towards inclusiveness and collaboration with regards to Information Security and DevOps processes.

There will also be hands-on workshops and open spaces with leading industry experts to share experience and exchange ideas. Technology companies with tools geared towards DevSecOps will present their platforms, technologies and innovations.

Francois Raynaud, founder of DevSecCon and Senior Monitoring & Response Manager at Betfair, explains the motivation behind the event: "In this digital world, having a fully integrated agile development and security strategy is central to any enterprise. Security is at its best when seamlessly incorporated in the architecture and design phases, which we know is rarely the case. DevSecCon is committed to resolve this issue by being the central platform to present new tools, processes and methodologies supporting DevSecOps."

Delegates will have full access to:

A series of lightning talks by industry experts about out how DevSecOps can drive organisations forward and how to practically apply these solutions
The opportunity to connect with like-minded IT professionals during complimentary breakfast, lunch and drinks reception

Workshops and open spaces run by leading minds and influencers from the worlds of DevOps and SecOps

The latest innovations, technologies and platforms in DevSecOps

The conference is taking place at Skills Matter CodeNode, 10 South Place, EC2M 2RB London from 8:30 to 17:30 and will be followed by free networking drinks.

A full schedule of the conference, more information and Early Bird tickets are available at <http://www.devseccon.com>.
